ST. JOHN WILL NOT TALK OF MAINE.

There was deeper gloom yesterday than usual in the office of William P. St. John, the treasurer of the Democratic National Committee, and the few persons who lingered about the office looked as if they were waiting for some graves to open. Mr. St. John, when reporters asked for an interview about the result of the Maine election, replied with great dignity. Thave nothing to say. I made no comments on the Arkansas election, and I will make none on the Maine decition.

POPOCRATIC LEADERS.

ALARM AND DEMORALIZATION PLAINLY MANIFEST AT WASHINGTON HEADQUARTERS-WITH-DRAWAL OF SEWALL NOT DISCUSSED.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.] Washington, Sept. 15.—If the rank and file of the Popocratic forces throughout the country were half as hadly demoralized as are the leaders in Washington there would be little or no reason for Republicans to feel anxious or doubtful about the result of the Presidential campaign in any of the States which together will cast a large majority of the electoral The indications of Popocratic alarm and demoralization here are too plain not to be seen and heeded by every careful observer. Only seven weeks remain of the campaign, and the leaders of the Bryan-Sewall-Watson forces are still unsettled as to their plans, and are expending their efforts and energies mainly to weld their ill-disciplined and unsteady battalions into a concrent organiza- IF TRUE, SPAIN WILL BE MADE TO SUFFER FOR There seems to be absolutely no effective leadership, or rather a sad lack of constancy of purpose and heartiness of co-operation among those who are nominally at the head of the Popocratic hosts. Everywhere are discovered signs of discord and mutual distrust. Chairman Jones does not know in whose sincerity and judgment to trust. That he suspects the singleness of purpose and devotion of Chairman Butler and some other prominent leaders of the Populist contingent is no secret here. That the silver party leaders, with a few exceptions, regard Chairman leaders, with a few exceptions, regard Chairman Butler and his followers and most of their opinions with disgust and abhorrence, and that they distruct they do not fear the leaders of the Chicago crusade, is also not a secret in Washington. No evidence is furnished of any close co-operation between the three divisions of silver men in the South and West and year substantial foundation is South and West and year substantial foundation is South and West, and no substantial foundation is shown for the expectation that the combination can operate effectively. Apparently the managers are as much in the dark as to which way sentiment ending as is any one else. If anything was accomplished at the conference

If anything was accomplished at the conference here it was probably with relation to the situation in Idaho, but those present carefully refrain from saying what was said and done as to that mater. The committee must have decided to do something to upset the combination against Senator Dubots, otherwise it would not have been amounced that Dubots was to take charge of the coast campaign, nor is it likely that Senator Teller would have remained at the East. The Western Senators and Jones had another brief conference with Butler this morning, and it is understood that he is cooperating in whatever they are trying to do.

The result in Maine led to the starting of a story that the withdrawal of Sewall was discussed last night and this morning. This assumption is not warranted. The question of the withdrawal of Sewall was not discussed between them. Senator Butler said this morning that he had not written to any one that it was agreed that Sewall should be taken from the ticket, and he did not believe that any such declaration as that alleged to be made in a letter to Representative Howard had been written by any one at the Populist headquarters. No such letter has been written by him or with his authority. That he wair had been written by any one at the Populist headquarters. No such letter has been written by him or with his authority. That he wair had made is the only man who can act in that matter. I know nothing about his intentions and have no all thority to make suggestions to him. I might deem it a patriotic act for him to windraw from the ticket, but he has to decide that for himself."

RUN OVER BY A HANSOM.

A CLERK AT WE WALDORF KNOCKED DOWN IN BROADWAY.

James P. Scott, one of the chief clerks of the Hotel Waldorf, was severely injured by being run over by a hansom cab about 770 o'clock last evening. He was on his way home from the hotel, and, while trying to avoid a cable car at Thirty-thirdst. and Broadway, was knocked down by the cab, the wheel passing over his hip and shoulder. After being knocked down by the cab he narrowly escaped being run over by the cable-car, which was running in the opposite direction. Mr. Scott was taken to the Waldorf, where it was found that no bones had been broken, and his injuries were not serious, unless he had received internal injuries, which could not then be determined.

INSANE THROUGH LOVE.

A YOUNG WOMAN ON HER WAY TO DENMARK IS TAKEN TO BELLEVUE-HER SAD STORY.

Nicholina Nelson, forty years old, who arrived this city from San Francisco yesterday, was taken to Bellevue Hospital last night from No. 14 Moore-st, in an insane condition. It is said that she had been confined in an asylum in California for some time, her derangement having been caused by a disappointment in love and the loss

She was on her way to her native city, Copenthe departure of a steamship upon which her passage had been taken. Last evening her malady became pronounced, and it was decided to remove her to the hospital. Miss Nelson's story, as told by her friends, is a sad one. She came to the United States some years ago and went to San Francisco. She was a handsome woman of captivating manners and had not a few suitors. One among them she became much attached to. He proved unworthy, it is said, much attached to. He proved unworthy, it is said, and deserted her. About the same time, too, she lost, in some way, $7,000 or $5,000, whether through the man who proved faise to her or not her friends will not say. Her disappointment in love and her loss preyed upon her mind and she became milily insane. Every young man she saw she imagined to be her recreant lover, and it became her mania to reproach him for stealing her heart and her money. Last night she refused to retire, and went moaning and lamenting about the Swedish Home. Then it was decided to confine her temporarily in Bellevue until the arrangements for sending her to Copenhagen had been completed.

WHO WAS THE LAURADA SPY?

Kingston, Jamaica, Sept. 15.-All circumstances point to the fact that on her last voyage the steamer Laurada had among her crew a Spanish agent and spy. For obvious reasons no action will be taken against him unless it be in the form of a Cuban stiletto. That the Laurada carried a fillbustering expedition to Cuba on this trip seems to be beyond all doubt, although there will probably be great difficulty in proving the fact, for the Spanish spy, who it is now well known was on board, will hardly care to reveal himself in the witness-box.

This man attempted to wreck the vessel, and should he appear to swear to the information he possesses regarding the fillbustering part of the voyage, he will have to face a charge on this count. Per contra, if his identity has really been ascertained no legal action will be taken against him, as last evening at their clubhouse, at Park-ave, and Pifty-ninth-st. The annual election of officers was set down to take place last night, but that was not what drew an unusually large number of the members to the house. The really important piece of business was the consideration of the case of the financial secretary, Edward Gauss, who was accused of a defalcation of the society's funds to the extent of several thousand dollars. It was expected that some of Gauss's friends would make an attempt to re-elect him, and so vindicate him before the society. But no such thing happened. On the contrary.

the defaulter. Instead of this, they recommended that Gauss's life insurance policy of $3,000 be made over to the society, and that a second mortgage be taken on his business for the rest of the amount he had taken, until such time as he could be able to repay the amount due to the society. Mr. Mende said that he had talked this plan over with Gauss and that he had given his consent to it. After some discussion the report of the committee was adopted. Then the meeting endeavored to decide whether Gauss should be allowed to resign, or whether he should be expelled from the society. His resig-nation was already in the hands of President Katzenmeyer. The members of the society were di-vided on this point, and the discussion of the matter was extremely vigorous. It was finally voted to lay the matter on the table until the next meeting. August Gebhard, a clerk in the German Savings Bank, was elected financial secretary in
